

New Year: New Clean

BY CHRISTINA FITZWILLIAM

THE HOLIDAY SEASON has wreaked havoc on my home. After all the holiday cooking, the parties, and a full-time toddler on the loose, just looking at the mess around me was enough to send me back under the blankets with my eyes shut tight denying the reality of the disaster at hand. But, since hiding wasn't really an option, I eventually faced the "ultra-fun" monstrous task at hand and plunged into getting my home back under control.

After saying goodbye to our Christmas decorations, reorganizing each room, and wiping most every surface, it was time to tackle the floors. A short time later, my tile and grout and carpets were good as new, and all traces of the party and the season had disappeared. All I needed was to wipe the tile and grout with hot water and to simply vacuum the carpets. The credit for this easy clean-up goes to my husband, John. Two years ago John applied a special sealer to our hard surfaces and Teflon guard on our carpets. Because he had been proactive in protecting our floors, it was easy to bring all our surfaces back to perfection with minimal effort.

Perhaps this holiday season was particularly brutal to you home as well, and you need to call in some professionals. If it's been a while since your carpets were cleaned, or if they experienced some abuse this season, you will want to address the problem before it gets out of hand. After an intensive deep-down sanitizing clean, which ensures the entire carpet structure is clean and sanitized, you may opt to apply a Teflon guard. This additional step acts as a layer of protection to the carpet fiber to reduce wear, as well as to repel soil.

But what about your home's tile and grout? This is where Surface Doc really shines. Using state-of-the-art equipment, Surface Doc uses a perfect combination of pressure, heat, and extraction to remove all foreign contaminants from floors, leaving them deep-down clean and sanitized. Homeowners are then offered the option to seal, which further protects the integrity of the floor and makes maintenance a breeze. We are so impressed with our sealer, and know that you will be as well, that we guarantee it.

This year make a New Year's resolution that you can keep. With our help, keeping your surfaces clean this year has never been easier. Get your home in tip-top shape for the New Year and call John at Surface Doc today at 865-567-1986 or visit www.SurfaceDoc.com.
